FROM THE PRESIDENT & CEO

Dear Friends,

Collaborating with my team to put together this Annual Report is a true joy. It is our chance to take a victory lap with you and demonstrate the impact the Preservation Society has made to save historic places and galvanize community action, thanks to your tremendous support.

It is humbling to showcase in one publication the sheer breadth of members who trusted in our team last fiscal year, July 1 to June 30. As a grassroots organization, we gain strength from this people power, if you will. Our members have diverse backgrounds, yet share a love for our city and a commitment to making it better.

Charleston is one of the world's great cities for a singular reason: It had foresight. Few communities adopted preservation policies early enough to retain an essential and altogether unique character before decades of relentless development and growth. We know that pressure is ever-present and the community must stand up for the values we hold dear.

I hope each of you see what I see in the team we have built. It's a tenacious group, serving our cause with integrity and a commitment to excellence. We learn from every campaign, build on our successes, and strive to meet the moment each time our history is threatened. We have 105 years of precedent representing our members to keep this promise. And we are profoundly grateful to each of you for propelling us forward.

With sincere gratitude,

Brian R. Turner
President & CEO

PRESERVATION IS LOCAL.

The Preservation Society stands alongside our community in honoring the contributions of those who shaped Charleston's history. Our ongoing initiatives uplift previously untold stories and are designed to be accessible to broader audiences in the Lowcountry and beyond.

When it launched in Fall 2024, the Mapping Charleston's Black Burial Grounds project engaged the community to document more than 200 burial sites citywide. Today, that comprehensive digital resource is already having an impact to strengthen local protections by highlighting locations most vulnerable to development and flooding. Working alongside community partners, we're continuing to build out that toolkit to ensure the dignity of those who came before us with regional expansion of the map currently underway.

The PSC's Historic Markers Program is one of our longest-running preservation initiatives, founded in the 1950s. With more than 150 markers and counting, the program is making great strides to expand our interpretive lens and geographic reach. In the past year, we have added 12 new markers, each representing new historical narratives now publicly available to those walking by or accessing our online database.

Protecting local resources and historic fabric requires constant vigilance by the PSC staff in addition to activating our membership against the threat of demolition. Vernacular architecture remains disproportionately impacted by increasing development pressure, putting irreplaceable local history and materials at risk. The extraordinary video showing the collapse of the Freedman's Cottage at 190 Line Street in broad daylight exemplifies the need for policies that better protect historic properties in the face of intensifying development, climate, and real estate pressures.

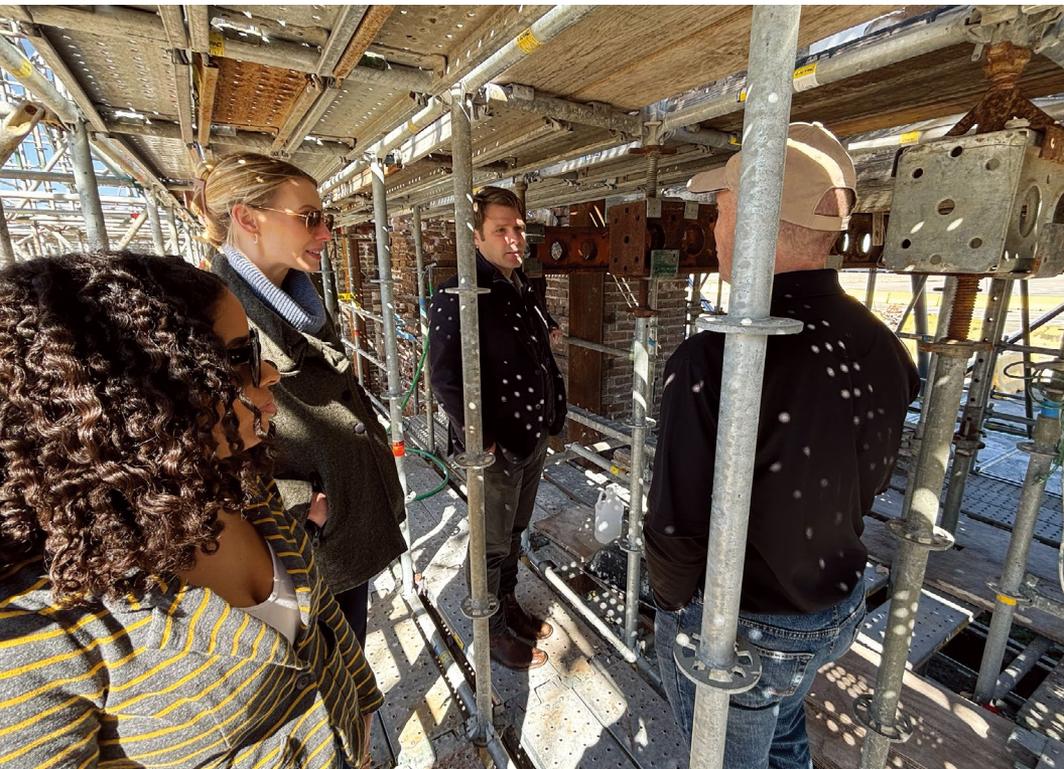

Clockwise from top left: PSC partners with the Avery Research Center to document Humane & Friendly Cemetery; celebrating historic marker at Septima P. Clark's former house (364 President St.); BAR site visit; the collapse of 190 Line St.; and the marker unveiling at the Still-Jenkins-Wright House (143 Spring St.).

PRESERVATION CONSIDERS THE BIG PICTURE.

Preservation is often as much about drawing on our past as it is about charting a stewardship vision for generations to come. Consistent with our legacy, a key pillar of the PSC's advocacy is to shape consequential projects and major development in Charleston.

The Board of Architectural Review is one of the most impactful venues. PSC staff regularly appear to advocate for projects that protect the authenticity and scale of Charleston's historic districts. And we challenge the proposals that threaten our livability, whether it's a high-rise hotel or a midcentury demolition.

Union Pier is one of the most significant redevelopments in Charleston's history. The PSC was victorious in its longstanding campaign to end cruise ship traffic on this site. We also succeeded in preventing the rezoning of the site for dozens of tall, blocky buildings, working together with partners.

The PSC is an advocate for a development at Union Pier that centers public use and accessibility, innovative water management, mixed-income housing opportunities, and thoughtful building design. We are encouraged that the new team is approaching the project with needed care and patience. In the years to come, we will continue to focus our advocacy on ensuring this historic site sets a new standard for climate resilience and urban waterfront design.

We engage in these significant projects while keeping the big picture in mind. The PSC is a leader in advancing legislation and policy to enhance stewardship of historic and cultural resources throughout the Lowcountry. Last year, through on-the-ground research, we produced Area Character Appraisals for the Wagener Terrace and North Central neighborhoods, providing city staff and political leaders valuable tools to enhance protections for these important neighborhoods.

PRESERVATION IS FOR EVERYONE.

The Preservation Society aims to continue expanding our impact and footprint off the peninsula, reaching new neighborhoods and communities through our programming and outreach efforts. We welcomed almost 3,500 attendees to our full calendar of programming during the 2024-25 fiscal year.

For the first time in its 48-year history, The Fall Tours offered guests the chance to explore homes and gardens on Sullivan's Island and in West Ashley's Crescent neighborhood. The 71st Carolopolis Awards saw the first plaques awarded on Daniel Island (St. Clare of Assisi) and on Folly Beach (508 East Ashley Avenue). During Preservation Month, celebrated nationally in May, preservation professionals and committed project teams gave insider access to several ongoing and completed rehabilitation projects in Charleston's Eastside neighborhood.

The PSC also hosted exciting new speakers and subject-matter experts across the year, educating members and the general public on pressing advocacy issues. The Winter Membership Meeting unpacked the underlying factors that lead to demolition, gathering City officials, local developers, and nonprofit colleagues from the Center for Heirs' Property Preservation. Building on the momentum of Union Pier's redevelopment, The Elizabeth Kirkland Cahill Distinguished Lecture brought James F. Lima, a nationally recognized urban strategist whose work focuses on the intersection of economics, equity, and placemaking to our Preservation Month line-up.

Preservation Month also included the first Steeples of the Holy City lecture, highlighting the restoration of St. Philip's Church. Thanks to parish leadership, as well as the project's engineering and construction teams, attendees learned what it takes to preserve and protect this iconic landmark firsthand from those who made it possible. Deepening the impact of our Resilience Guidance for Charleston, the PSC partnered with The M.A.R.S.H. Project to offer a Backyard Resilience Workshop, empowering the community to pursue creative climate solutions.

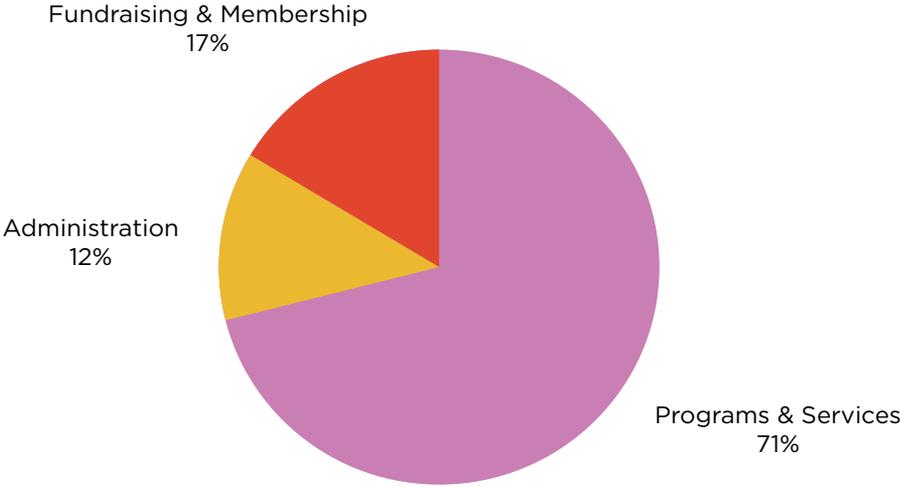

Clockwise from top left: The 2024 Fall Tours featured homes and gardens in West Ashley's Crescent neighborhood and on Sullivan's Island; the Winter Membership Meeting's panel discussing the issue of demolition; the Backyard Resilience Workshop held during Preservation Month at High Wire Distilling; and former PSC intern Maddox Allen presenting at a hard hat tour.

2024-2025 TRIBUTE GIFTS

The names listed on this page represent enduring legacies. Through the generosity of our donors, memorial gifts honor friends and loved ones while advancing the Preservation Society of Charleston's mission to safeguard the city's irreplaceable architectural and cultural heritage. These gifts have a special meaning to those who came before and have contributed so much to Charleston and the work of the PSC.

WHAT OUR MEMBERS HAVE TO SAY:

"We are thankful for the Preservation Society and for all that you do to support Charleston's past, present, and future."

"We believe in preserving what makes Charleston...Charleston."

"I have been a member and supporter since arriving in Charleston 20 years ago."

"I love this city and read and care a lot about history, I want to become more educated and involved in these important local issues."

"PSC's advocacy is essential to preserving the history and character of Charleston."

"I continue to renew my membership every year when I see how vigilant they are in acting as an oversight committee for encroaching development in downtown Charleston. I hope they will continue to safeguard the unique and historic aspects of this city."

"Your leadership and your work are awesome. It is especially an honor to collaborate with you on preservation advocacy."

"PSC has stayed true to its mission of preservation of this special place."

"We have a deep commitment to preserving the historic elements of Charleston that cannot be found elsewhere and are invaluable and irreplaceable. Preserving the history of our area is critical."

"I have loved Charleston all my life."

STAFF SPOTLIGHT

KENDRA RODELL

ADVANCEMENT COORDINATOR

The Advancement Team welcomed a new Advancement Coordinator this year, Kendra Rodell. She will manage all memberships and development administration, as well as support our member programs.

Originally from North Carolina, Kendra began her journey with the PSC in July 2021 as a Retail Associate and, after a brief time away, returned in March 2024 as our Assistant Retail Manager and Book Buyer. During her time away, she gained valuable experience working for Blackbaud, Inc. and The Charleston Museum.

A Charleston resident for 10 years, Kendra is a proud graduate of the College of Charleston with a B.S. in Anthropology. Her passion for history and preservation is evident not only through her education but also through her years volunteering in the archaeology lab at Charles Towne Landing.

At the PSC, Kendra continues to curate a thoughtful and engaging book selection for our shop. We're thrilled to have Kendra bring her experience, energy, and love for Charleston to this new role.

REFLECTIONS FROM THE ADVANCEMENT TEAM

This past year marked an extraordinary chapter for the Preservation Society of Charleston, made possible by the generosity and commitment of an engaged and passionate community. We extend our deepest gratitude to our steadfast donors, new members, and dedicated sponsors whose financial support strengthened our mission and expanded our impact.

We thank the homeowners who graciously opened their doors, the guests who attended and championed our events, and the countless individuals who engaged with our programs and advocacy efforts throughout the year.

Our volunteers, whose time and talents are invaluable, helped bring our work to life in during the Tours. Together, these collective efforts have not only advanced the Preservation Society's work, but have made a lasting difference in protecting the historic character, cultural heritage, and sense of place that define the city of Charleston.

It is our team's honor to receive your gifts and hear your words of encouragement for our cause. Your enthusiasm and your support truly carry us forward.

Our warmest thanks,

Courtney W. Theis,
Director of Advancement

Rebecca Hoffman,
Manager of Advancement

Kendra Rodell,
